

GLEANINGS
FROM THE GLADES

Threshed Out In Belle Glade
BY PHIL CLARKE

HANDS OFF!

The problem of money exchange is not to be considered overwhelmingly difficult in these days of expanded capital and deserving markets. But, for the sake of convenience, if nothing else, banks and other institutions of a financial, domestic or commercial nature, should be located where they will serve the greatest majority, and where they will best support a community capable of supporting them.

I have reference, of course, to a 10-year old situation that has thus far prevented citizens of Belle Glade from securing a bank. Efforts to obtain this much needed institution have failed and failed again, not from lack of local support, but apparently from the pressure exerted by opposing outside interests. It is understood that latest efforts to obtain a bank have been defeated, mostly through opposition voiced by three banks in surrounding communities.

Can this be proven? The community of Belle Glade is incapable of supporting a home-owned (or otherwise) bank? A most emphatic, "No, I'm sure!"

In a community, repeatedly one of the richest agriculturally in the United States, where more than 3,748 carloads of winter vegetables were shipped from the Belle Glade depot, packed and graded by Belle Glade packing houses, grown and picked by Belle Glade farmers—all living and spending their money at home—is it yet established a bank?

It is time that the patriarchs of another system, the conservative money lenders of other communities, be given their opportunity to be natural right of our town. In a growing, thriving community that needs banks to handle its expansion, the commercial exchange of money and the support of a bank is unknown. At the same time, the situation rank with prejudice!

Would anyone, actuated by greed, be so bold as to advocate the abolition of a post office in our community and the merging of that post office with that of another community? I'm quite sure that the federal government is not in the habit of doing things just that way! But, the services rendered citizens of a community by a bank can be likened to the functions of a United States post office. Just what the institution, whether it be a bank or a post office, can accomplish in aiding the healthy progress of the community it represents, need not be stated herein; the benefits are too well known.

But, here is a community, growing, with growing pains, possessing a quarter of a million dollars worth of municipal taxable property, doing a greater part of its business through the towns of the Lake Okechobee region combined, suffering needlessly want and inconvenience because of the lack of a bank. What justifiable reasons exist for denying such a community the needed support of a bank? First, it might be said that the community lacks local support. At one time, in the troubled history of this affair, Belle Glade investors pledged the combined capital of several thousands of dollars—much above the minimum required by bank examiners—and promised full support to the institution. Second, it might be argued that there is already a bank, close at hand, ready and willing to serve citizens of this community as well as citizens of the community it represents. Palm Beach and West Palm Beach are close together, separated by only a bridge. Both have their own banks.

Belle Glade Lions
At Regular Meet

Talks To Club About
Savings And Loan
Groups

High J. Bratley, secretary of the Everglades Federal Savings and Loan Association, spoke at the regular Wednesday noon luncheon of the Lions Club of Belle Glade at the home of Louis Peters.

Mr. Bratley chose as his topic "Federal Savings and Loan Associations," and explained the functions and development of these institutions. According to Mr. Bratley, the federal savings bank was established by President Roosevelt in 1923. This board, he explained, established a temporary agency to take care of distressed home loans, known as the Federal Home Loan Bank, to take care of frozen bank loans on local estate, Federal Savings and Loan Association, to take care of local bank savings at local banks in surrounding communities.

Can this be proven? The community of Belle Glade is incapable of supporting a home-owned (or otherwise) bank? A most emphatic, "No, I'm sure!"

Third, it has been repeatedly asserted that the establishment of a bank in Belle Glade would tend to increase the present amount of money in the community. Another established bank in a nearby community, what fairness demands in the present situation is a community support another to its own detriment? Most businesses are established where business is.

OPEN ROADWAY BIDS

Theatres To Play
Excellent Films
For Mother's Day

Princess and Everglades Theatres are outstanding Sunday Attractions.

The management of the Princess theatre in Pahokee and the Everglades theatre in Belle Glade announce unusually good pictures for this week end. Since Mother's Day is Sunday the management has decided to feature a family picture for the Princess theatre in Pahokee. The film is "Out West With The Harveys," and the participants in the film include members of the now widely known Hardy family.

The film booked for the Everglades theatre is an exceptionally fine group of actors to the screen. Mickey Rooney as Andy Hardy in "The Boy Who Went Down the River," and a comedy sweetheart of the screen, Will Compton and his lovely wife, Jeanette MacDonald, are featured in the picture.

At the Everglades theatre, Mrs. Hooker is an unusually interesting and gripping picture is scheduled for Sunday when "Tail Spin" is shown. This picture is a comedy starring Bennett and Kelly. Proposed changes in the waterworks extension program, now under way in Belle Glade, were discussed by members of the Belle Glade town council at their regular Wednesday night session at the old town hall.

Plans to extend a pipe line to the proposed FSA housing camp for white laborers near the railroad were discussed. The town will furnish water to the camp at the regular rate and necessary changes in the pipeline extension will be included in the present contract.

Commissioner A. E. Kirchman told the council that about eight persons residing in Chosen, Fla., had been ordered to leave the town's water system, providing the town extended a main beyond the corporate limits into the Chosen district.

Certain objections to the extension of a line to Chosen were presented by the town's water system, providing the town extended a main beyond the corporate limits into the Chosen district.

Making Effort To Establish Bank In Town Belle Glade

Petition Circulated A nd Will Be Sent To Comptroller

Under the leadership of the citizens of Belle Glade this week made another determined effort to secure a bank. Over a hundred signatures on a petition circulated by J. F. Scullen, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and Louis Salomone, Belle Glade, were gathered Monday and Tuesday.

The petition, which was submitted to the Comptroller of the Currency, will be presented to the Comptroller of the Currency at Tallahassee.

At a director's meeting of the Chamber of Commerce last Thursday after having received the petition, the organization of Miami indicated they would consider establishing a bank in Belle Glade.

It is believed that the granting of the charter may be delayed for some time. Opposition to granting a charter for a bank in Belle Glade has been voiced by many banks connected with other banks, it was stated by the Chamber of Commerce.

The petition, prepared by the Chamber of Commerce, reads as follows: "To the Hon. J. M. Leno, Comptroller of the Currency, U. S. Department of the Treasury, Washington, D. C. We, the undersigned citizens and business concerns of the Town of Belle Glade, Palm Beach County, Florida, respectfully petition the Comptroller of the State of Florida, to grant a charter for the establishment of a State bank in the Town of Belle Glade, Florida, and in connection with this petition, represent and show that the Comptroller that there are no banking facilities whatever in the Town of Belle Glade, Florida, is a thriving community, having many business establishments, and it is necessary for the normal development of the town and the business community to have a bank established there that banking facilities be established at said location.

The attached report and a statement that the nearest bank to the Town of Belle Glade, Florida, is located at Pahokee, Fla., some 10 miles distant, and the said town of Pahokee, Florida, is an entirely independent and distinct community.

The attached report says: "To Whom It May Concern: This Chamber of Commerce wishes to report that there are many others in this growing town of Belle Glade and the vicinity who would be anxious to sign this petition in addition to the names already appearing on it, and if it will be in getting a drastically needed bank in our town, we will gladly take the time to obtain the names of the rest of the population to be served by the bank."

HONOR THY MOTHER

An Englishman was rather astounded by the observance of so many "Special Days" and asked why we set aside these occasions if not purely for mercenary reasons. Our reply was that it seemed to be the American way. We admit being a sentimental people and are rather proud of it, even though it may be laid to make a public demonstration of private feelings. But we cannot be censured when the idea is purely of respectful salutation. It is true that the event has been commercialized, and we regret it, but there are those of us who will not permit this to spoil the deeper meaning.

The Ten Commandments have been broken by most of us. They have been thought old-fashioned and overtaken by a more streamlined civilization. But one of them will never be denied by man, "Honor thy Father and thy Mother." The worst of us, who will heedlessly break and scorn the other commandments, cling to this family creed above all else. Despite all the modern methods of living and the forces working against it, the life of the family survives. The family that exists in a better-schooled world, involved and distracted, goes on and counts itself fortunate to have lost everything else perhaps, but not its family life. It is to the mothers we pay our homage, to her we make our bows of respect. The heart overflows but the ink dries on the pen. The tongue desires speech but the words die on the lips. The gift is a small offering, but to a valiant soul. The inspiration of poets and songwriters, the subject for painter and photographer, may not want so much sentiment. But we continue to honor mother and the institution of our family life. We cling to our sentiments, which makes us conscious of the happiness and the misery of others, the sentiment which has its seat in the heart. Let us lose every modern and superstitious habit, if we must, but never let us lose the respect and love we have for the family. This is indeed, the American way.

"DEATH TAKES A HOLIDAY"

Accidents, injuries and deaths from speeding trucks and automobiles in Belle Glade have been remarkably few of late. Whatever divine providence has protected the children of our community from dozens of reckless speeding drivers who have made race courses of our streets, it must certainly be thought of as nothing short of miraculous.

Trusting to luck, with a bushel of sheer nerve, many drivers have raced thoughtlessly on, laughing at our signs of caution and danger. Some day, maybe when tomorrow comes, a bright, eager youngster with strong arms, sturdy legs and a healthy body is going to be the victim of that ever deadly menace—when death ends its holiday? We shudder to think of the uneven match a trusting, unsuspecting child can put up against a powerful, heavy truck or a steel-guarded automobile. We well remember one particular accident, many years ago, that claimed a healthy child for life. It was a holiday picnic and that little fellow, a phony four year old, wandered forgetfully from his parent's protection. Seeing other children playing happily on the other side of a broad thoroughfare, the little tot, unaided across, unwatched and ignorant of danger. With a quick crack, the steel bumper of a speeding car caught the child at his knees, flipping him high in the air and dropping him head first against the rear bumper of the same car. The driver stopped, there were expressions of sorrow, grief, regret, but all too late. All the money in the world would not allow that little boy to play again.

Before it's too late, let's see to it that death takes a permanent holiday in Belle Glade. One of the most effective means of preventing traffic fatalities, as suggested by John Harris, is to demand that all owners of trucks and employees of drivers for those trucks see to it that their vehicles are present in modern day motoring. And if the drivers disregard these warnings, put teeth into the measure, by discharging them.

Arthur Wells, prominent Belle Glade grower and mayor of town, has set an example by demanding that all of his employees observe traffic rules and regulations; especially within the school zone. Mr. Wells fires employees who disregard these instructions.

Conservation act in reducing prevalent traffic perils will save many a tear, and may keep some home filled with the laughter of a child instead of what can never be regained.

Beck Plan Turned Down By Chamber

Directors of the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce this week rejected a proposal by Representative Herbert D. Beck, of Belle Glade, to revive State highway project No. 172 which would connect the unimproved Kresner and Terry roads with the present Broom Point-South Bay road at the island bridge near the date.

Representative Beck made the suggestion to the chamber in the form of a letter asking that Brooks Robinson, member of the State Road Department, be enlisted to insure construction of the State planned road. The project was first planned in 1931 but subsequently dropped. Since construction of the Lake Okechobee dike, a large number of former residents of the island area have moved elsewhere because of increased danger from a hurricane strike. Beck believes that the project is due to this reason, it was said by Chamber officials.

Highway No. 232 was designated by the 1937 session of the State legislature and proposed a State highway from Broom Point to South Bay, connecting with state road No. 25 at the latter point. Opposite to the latter has been denied by the citizens of Belle Glade because they believe the road would divert considerable traffic around the town.

The total outlay of the New York World's Fair 1939 will amount to $15,000,000 but it is expected to bring in one billion dollars worth of business. Florida's outstanding exhibit will secure millions of dollars worth of business for the state.

June 30 Is Date Set For Starting Work On Federal Project

Titles Must Be Cleared And Work Begun By That Time

The construction of two large migratory labor camps in Belle Glade, representing a federal government expenditure of nearly $500,000, will probably be started before June 30, it was announced last week by a spokesman of the Farm Security Administration, the agency supporting the project.

Two separate investigations have been made of local labor situations, officials of the F.S.A. have made plans for the two camps that are to be established in Belle Glade, one for white people and one for negroes.

Funds are available for starting the two housing projects in Belle Glade during the current fiscal year. It was announced. Unless work gets under way by June 30, the funds will revert to the agency treasury and will be necessary to obtain another allocation.

The starting of work depends on how soon the titles to the sites in question can be cleared. The white project will accommodate 171 families and is to be located on 100-acre tract north of the packed house district and west of the railroad tracks. It will cost an estimated $184,800.

The negro project, accommodating 344 families and costing $268,500, will occupy a 60-acre site on State Road 26 near Vinegar Bend.

Each camp will contain corrugated iron shelter, built in two units, one room each for white occupants and four units of one room each for negroes. In addition there will be a smaller number of four room frame houses, each occupying one-third of an acre of ground, which will be rented to permanent dwellers as subsistence homes. Occupants of these houses will be required to grow vegetables for their own use and to can produce for consumption during the non-growing season. The work will be by contract and it is probable that bids will be asked for in the near future. Regional headquarters of the F.S.A. are located at Birmingham, Ala. F. S. Morgan is regional director of that office. The purpose behind the program, according to an official of the department, is not only to provide decent living accommodations for seasonal workers but to help stabilize the labor situation by encouraging workers to remain here throughout the year. As the demand for subsistence houses increases, more of them will be asked. The rental charges have not been determined as yet.

In surveying the prevailing labor situation in Belle Glade, it was found that approximately one-third of the farm and packing house labor in Belle Glade is employed full time for about eight months. The remaining two-thirds work from two to six months in this vicinity.

INSTANT OFFICERS

Officers for the Belle Glade police and Otisobah auxiliaries were installed at a special meeting last night at the American Legion hall in Palatka. The state Legion commander and the district Legion commander attended the affair.

HOME EC STYLE SHOW

Mrs. Frank Hobson, Palatka High School home economics instructor, will present the home economics girls in a style show at the school auditorium tonight at 8 p. m. Proceeds will be used to buy class equipment.

OTHER FSA CAMPS

Officials of the Farm Security Administration, in Belle Glade making preliminary arrangements for construction of two migratory labor camps, said that similar camps will probably be located at Palatka and Clewiston, as well as other places in Florida.

The Government funds for these additional projects will have to be allocated in the next year's fiscal budget, it was said.

In the old days when a couple were married folks wondered how many children they would have. Today they wonder how long the couple will stay married.

First signs of local opposition to the Beck-Morrow bill for limiting commercial fishing operations in the southeastern waters of the state were voiced this week in the form of a petition circulated by Bob White, Belle Glade.

Mr. White, who has been trapping in the vicinity of Bacom for many years, is asking to be excluded from the sealing provisions of the law. Asserting that his only method of catching fish is by using a snare, he is trapping, he wants to be allowed to continue this operation.

Representative Herbert Beck, of Belle Glade, and R. O. Morrow, of West Palm Beach, cosponsored the bill at the instance of Everglades sport fishermen who want a breeding ground for bass and other game fish.

Mr. White plans to forward his petition to Tallahassee some time next week.
